THE PROPOSED MEETING.

Several colleagues have launched the idea of holding a mammoth meeting to greet the President of the Republic on his return from Cordoba. They support the idea with considerations of the loftiest patriotism, and show so much warmth in its advocacy that one is inclined to believe that, in their opinion, the meeting will solve the financial problem and put an end to the present crisis. They are convinced that the meeting will signify to the President of the Republic the state of opinion of this capital, and that the exponents of that state of opinion will show His Excellency how to get out of the financial mess and manage affairs to get back to specie payments. They, therefore, make an appeal to all men of good-will, of all parties, of all classes, to join and support the movement.

We are willing to believe that this zeal is inspired by a sincerity above suspicion, by a burning desire to save the country from ruin, by a strong conviction that the Government are groping in the dark and need the counsel of the people—"vox populi, vox dei". Yet we very much doubt the efficacy of such a meeting, especially when got up under the auspices or initiative of partizan opposition. The people, no doubt, have a right to meet and to express their opinions; we have seen many meetings held in our public squares, to beg for peace, to clamour for war, to oppose taxation, to condemn political assassination, to greet returning statesmen, or to mourn over the death of others. Public meetings are no novelty in our political and social existence, but the public resort to them rarely, thus magnifying their importance when they do take place. The most critical meeting we remember was the famous peace meeting, started by the Bolsa and headed by the leading men alienated from the Government of the day; yet that meeting had a "raison d'être" under the terrible daily risk that threatened to upset order and bring on anarchy. It was a dangerous experiment, but it was not unpolitical. It begged at first, and then clamored for peace; it did not prevent revolution.

To-day, if we are not much mistaken, the people are asked to meet, to beg or to clamor for specie payments. The meeting, no doubt, will be headed by men anything but germane to the ruling party, and the financial part of the meeting's programme must be necessarily coloured with a tinge of party spirit. This very fact is sufficient to make the meeting suspicious to the Government, who will view its requests or resolutions in anything but a kindred spirit. As a financial meeting, its fate is doomed beforehand; as a political meeting, it may prove a very powerful factor in the assertion of party spirit and vitality. What the meeting may lose in its financial efficacy it may gain in its political character, and the majority of people will look on the meeting in this dual light, in which the blacker penumbra will be projected by the political torch.

All things considered, it would be infinitely better if the idea were dropped, for bad feeling must be the result of its execution under the present circumstances. Meetings will not cure the financial infirmity, but measures will, and measures depend upon the Executive and Congress. The agitation that has been going on in the columns of the press must have convinced the Government that the people of this city are clamoring against the effects of the financial policy and that some reform must be made. That reform cannot be decided upon in the heterogeneous and erratic councils of a popular meeting; it must be studied in the parlors of the Government House, of Congress, of the banks, etc.; but one thing is certain and that is that any reform must begin with the eradication of the state-banking cancer that is consuming the vitals of the country. But for the curse of state-banking, President Juarez would to-day see the country and his Government in the most resplendent prosperity, but no public meeting can convince him more forcibly of that fact than the ruin around him.

VALUABLE OPINIONS ON THE GERMAN IMPERIAL RESCRIPT.

SIR CHARLES DILKE INTERVIEWED.

Paris, Feb. 26.—Sir Charles Dilke, who has just arrived in Paris, expressed himself to a correspondent to-day in regard to the Imperial rescripts of the German Emperor. "It is hard to say," began Sir Charles, "just how far these proposals to improve the lot of the working classes have been prompted by a desire to influence the approaching German elections. I am not, however, disposed to regard this action as merely an electoral device. Germans have long been divided into two classes—one composed of ranting, red-handed Socialists in the worst sense of the word, and the other of State Socialists who have at heart the good of toiling thousands, and who favour such legislation as will bring that good about by peaceful, lawful means.

"The present proposal for an international Labour Conference would seem to emanate from the latter class. Very possibly the German Government has been influenced in making this proposal by the turbulent, dissatisfied condition of the labouring classes; but that is the history of all reforms, and in no way prevents the fact that the step once taken, for whatever reason, the masses will benefit by the advance.

"If the English Government is invited to send official delegates to such an International Congress, I think the invitation will be accepted. A similar Congress was convoked some time ago by Switzerland. Then Lord Salisbury accepted, but only under certain conditions. England has nothing to lose by taking part in such a congress. Already her hours of labour are shorter than those on the Continent, and her constant tendency is to establish the 45 hours a week system at present in vogue in Australia.

"You know the Eight Hour Law for Mines comes up before Parliament this Session, and is very likely to be passed. On the whole I think there is no doubt that England will look favourably upon Germany's proposition whenever it is made."

"Particularly if a Liberal Ministry should come into power before that time?"

"No. I don't think that would make any difference, for this is not at all a party question. Lord Randolph Churchill and a number of Conservatives are distinctly in favour of labour reforms, where as many Liberals who are manufacturers and monopolists would be against the same; but it is idle to discuss what would happen should a Liberal Ministry come into power, because there is no reason to anticipate such a change."

"Admitting that this International Congress takes place?"

"In the first place there are a number of European countries which would never take part in such a congress, but I think if it were called in Switzerland, France, Belgium and England would send delegates. They, as the chief commercial nations in Europe, will have a powerful influence upon others. As to what they will be able to accomplish I am less hopeful, for the characteristics and aptitudes of each people are so different, as well as the conditions under which they live, that any very deep-seated unanimity of opinion upon labour reform can hardly be looked for. Perhaps, however, they will be able to agree upon the length of working hours.

"For example, Australia has demonstrated that shortening the hours of labour does not necessarily lessen the amount produced. In any case, and whatever be the outcome of the congress, it will be but one step in the march toward that general Socialistic upheaval which I regard as inevitable.

"In fifty or a hundred years our descendants will look upon the present organisation of society very much as we look upon the feudal system of our ancestors. How these changes will come about no one can tell. There are too many unknown factors in the problem; but the changes are about to come, and are coming."

M. Leroy-Beaulieu, one of the great political economists of the day, was also seen on the same subject. He said: "I regard the proposal of the German Emperor as impractical, dangerous, and in every way ill-advised. William II. is a young man with only a superficial knowledge of the vast question he has undertaken to deal with. Perhaps in his ignorance he has confidence in the remedy he suggests, but you may be quite sure that Prince Bismark, who is pulling wires behind the throne, is simply manœuvring to catch the votes of his Socialistic enemies in the approaching elections. But that is precisely where the measure is dangerous, for in thus openly recognising the Socialists, he is unwittingly strengthening their cause, if not immediately, at least in the not distant future.

"Then as to the practicability of the scheme, it needs only a moment's consideration to see that it is utterly absurd. A thousand objections arise on every hand; national pride, intolerance, radical difference in the resources and fertility of the soil, differences in the characteristics of the people, differences in climate, system of government, taxes, customs, military organization, general intelligence.

"All those things have a direct bearing upon the condition of the laboring classes. You might as well try to establish uniformity as regards height, language, or color of the eyes as uniformity in the time and manner in which various nations will do their work.

"One thing is certain, of two peoples, the one which has the poorer soil, the least energy, inferior intelligence and aptitudes, will always have to work longer and harder than the other to accomplish the same result. No legislation can ever change that.

"No international Congress can ever make an Italian do as much work in an hour as an American. Nor can an American workman ever hope to turn out in a given time a product which will possess the artistic excellence of a French article, for the Frenchman is essentially of an artistic nature. England has a distinct advantage over Continental nations in having no enormous standing army. She has more men left to do her work. What laws can be made to balance this superiority which she enjoys in the labour markets of the world? Italy has no iron, no coal. How, then, can she hope to compete with the manufacturer in countries possessing inexhaustible mines of both?

"No, the idea is simply preposterous. Never yet have the nations of Europe been able to agree upon even the most elementary subjects. International Congresses have been tried again and again to come to some understanding on the sugar question, on the question of commercial treaties, on the question of a common money system, on a common system of weights and measures, on many other questions, but have never succeeded and never will succeed, until you can do away with international prejudice and jealousy. If then, the nations of Europe have thus failed to agree in regard to these comparatively trivial questions, how can they ever hope to agree upon such a vital, fundamental question as that which would determine how a poor man shall earn his daily bread?

"And, even if such an agreement were made, who would enforce it? Suppose one of the nations got tired of the contract and refused to abide by it any longer. Who would compel obedience and how? What would be done with China, Japan and India, whose millions of cheap workmen will in the near future become very serious competitors in the labor markets of the world? Would they be forced to sign the agreement, and if so, who would do the forcing?

"No, it is all too absurd to be more than a piece of political trickery?

The only papers to-day that expressed opinions upon the Emperor William's proposed invitation are the Temps, the Liberte and the Paris. The Temps says:—"The Imperial decrees reveal the true character of the electoral struggle to be decided on February 20. The Socialist movement is spreading with the rapidity of an electric current and dragging the population of Germany to unknown shores. The action of the Emperor in preparing for an International Labour Conference shows that the young monarch is now playing his cards with his own hand, and that Prince Bismarck has at last found in his Imperial master a successor long sought for in vain. When Mazarin died, everyone in France was at a loss to find his successor. Louis XIV settled the difficulty by replacing the Minister by his own person. The great problem of the heritage of Bismarck is perhaps about to receive a similar solution. We should, however, not lose sight of the fact that it is Louis the Fourteenths who are of sufficient stature to dispense with Mazarins, and above all, with Richelieus."

La Liberte says:—"Industrial competition is a peaceful war between various nations. To settle the labour question on an international basis is a mere dream. Customs would have to be abolished or equalised, wages would have to be adjusted in proportion to the needs and requirements of each district. It is probable that all Governments may lend themselves to this fantastic idea merely to make the masses believe they are interested in their welfare, but there can be no practical result from such confidence."

Paris, in an article entitled "Le Socialisme d'Un Empereur" takes a pessimist view, and says:—"The Imperial decrees show that the point noir in Germany is Socialism.

"While Prince Bismarck's guests were smoking their pipes the other day they must have thought of the prediction of Henri Heine that the French Revolution will be merely an idyll compared with the social revolution that is preparing in Germany."

THE NATIONAL HOTEL OF MONTEVIDEO.

THE BIGGEST HOTEL IN SOUTH AMERICA.

Of all the great building improvements which have been so liberally and with such continuous energy effected in Montevideo within the last two or three years, none call for higher eulogiums than the construction of this magnificent hotel.

Built just at the broad entrance of our charming bay, on a promontory overlooking both the town and the sea, facing the Cerro, the most picturesque feature of our harbor landscape, the National Hotel, with its elegance of structure, its gabled roof, its general air of solidity combined with the perfection of modern architectural taste, as seen from the sea, forms a most striking contrast to the plain long range of Custom House buildings stretching away in the distance behind it, and as each revolution of the screw brings the ocean steamer nearer and nearer its welcomed destination, the Queen City of the Plate must go far to propossess new comers in favor of the town, of which this handsome building is so conspicuous an ornament.

The construction of this splendid new hotel, which is so soon to be opened to the public, may be said, in many respects, to have created an epoch in Montevidean architecture and in River Plate hotel accommodation, by the inauguration of modern elegance and luxury with real comfort and ease, hitherto totally absent from both public and private buildings, and especially from the wretched makeshifts that have hitherto done duty for hotels. on either side of the Plate.

The National Hotel which has been constructed as a necessary addenda to the fine Gounouilhou Bathing Establishment, of which Montevideo may well be proud, has been raised in a most remarkably short time. This notable innovation, a most welcome advance on the never-ending building system in vogue but a few years back, is due to the unflagging zeal of capitalists and proprietors, who have unceasingly pushed the matter on with inexhaustible perseverance, showing a praiseworthy determination that an establishment so urgently demanded in the River Plate should be lacking, not a day longer than human energy could possibly prevent it.

It will be remembered, the solid foundations all of hewn stone, of this splendid building, were laid some time ago, when the Grand Bathing Establishment was being constructed; but the real labour of the building was only commenced some six months back. During that busy half year the work has been carried on with most extraordinary activity. Even the Electric light has been brought into requisition, enabling gangs of workmen to continue the labour, turn and turn about, both day and night, unceasingly; the structure rising like a fairy palace, in those few short months, before the astonished eyes of all Montevideo.

Some idea of the work so promptly and yet so thoroughly accomplished may be gathered from the following statement. The Hotel is a six story building, occupying a full square of land. It contains no fewer than 208 dormitories and private sitting rooms, of various sizes, but all lofty, airy and filled with light. There are 8 large saloons, one of them occupying the entire length of the building. There are two splendid large open, marble-floored patios, both light, cool and airy, with two intermediate or covered courts and a centre terrace or summer evening resort, surrounded with balustrades of marble and stucco work elegantly fashioned and hung with curtains. This terrace in the centre of the building, rises above the magnificently solid double staircases, rich with marble adornments, and affords the upper stories the benefit of patio, open air, but sheltered refreshment room, or promenade. In the construction of the National Hotel some $709,000 at least must have been spent. Of the material employed, all of the very first class it suffices to cite the following items: two million bricks, 4,000 barrels of Portland cement, 6,000 barrels tierra romana, 20,000 cartloads of sand, loads upon loads of stone and marble, 4,000 qq. of lime. Ninety iron columns surround the corridor, each column weighing 780 kilos. The centre of the building is supported by 12 immense iron columns, weighing 2,690 kilos, each, which have been got into their position by the aid of the latest application of hydraulic power. All the beams and joists of the building are of iron, while the wood work throughout is of the finest cedar and walnut. Of doors of which the hinges, handles, locks and hand plates are all of a most expensive composite metal, durable and elegant, there are no less than 980. During these last six months 1,500 men have been constantly employed on the building; the work of all kinds, carpentry, marble work, plaster and sculpturing, painting, iron work, gas and water pipe laying, etc., all being in charge of first rate workmen and really able artists, in fact, the best workmen in the Plate.

Favored by the kind permission of Col Gaudencio, we had the pleasure of going over this splendid building yesterday afternoon; Col. Gaudencio and Sn. Podesta acting as the most obliging and untiring of cicerones. The light, the coolness, the comfort, the airiness and luxury of the interior is even more striking than the agreeable and favourable impression created by the charming and elegant exterior had led us to expect.

Entering from one of the two main porticoes—that opposite the entrance to the Grand Bathing Establishment in Calle Piedras—we ascended the marble staircase not failing to notice the elegance and richness of the ceilings adorned with most artistic sincere work. We passed into the first large patio, bordered with a dado of rich black marble.

Acting on the advice of our cicerones, we ascended the grand central staircase under which are the telephone and post office rooms, and proceeded to the top of the building, or rather to the fifth floor, not troubling to examine the top story or servant's floor, as the ample space allowed for those departments could easily be gathered from the corresponding rooms below.

Passing up the grand staircase, the ascension of which is most comfortable owing to the gradual manner in which it is arranged, and the continual pauses and breaks afforded by the happy accommodation of intervening landings and ample entresols—on reaching the third and fourth floors where the dormitories and suites of rooms are, one is struck by the great space allowed, in the wide corridors that stretch all round, most elegantly adorned with tasselated pavement of various patterns bordered with marble.

Here one can breathe and move. What a difference to the stuffy, narrow spaces we have so long been accustomed to in our River Plate hotels! The rooms are arranged in most convenient sets, so that families may take suites of bedrooms and sitting rooms all opening into each other, and enjoying light and air both from the open interior and from the outside. The rooms are all supplied with electric bells, electric light, telephonic apparatus, gas and water; the bedrooms being fitted up with a service of taps and basins supplying and emptying water in the most convenient style. The baths of course are in the establishment in front, where every class of bath can be had.

Every suite of rooms has windows to the street, and on whatever side of the immense building the rooms may be chosen, the occupants will enjoy the benefit of a most splendid view, and the freshest of fresh air.

On the north side, above Calle Piedras, looking over the Bathing Establishment, the view is splendid. Near at hand, the Custom House, and the entire Bay crowded with its hosts of shipping in front. In the distance you catch a view of the Reducto and the Union to the right, in front Bella Vista and the Cerro, to the left the mouth of the harbour with what might well be mistaken for open sea beyond. A splendid view indeed, of land and sea, of mount, of shipping, of country and city.

On the west side, there is even a more open view of the sea. To the right Bella Vista and the Paso del Molino; in front the Cerro, surmounted by its picturesque old fort; below, the Bay studded with craft of all kinds; to the left the mouth of the river with the ocean packets steaming in, and a far away view of what might be Flores Island.

The South side looks over Calle Cerrito, and here again a splendid view may be had of land and sea, of town and country. The cupola of the Cathedral Matriz, with its towers, may be seen on the land side, as well as the tower of the San Francisco Church, the Caridad Hospital and many other fine buildings. Farther in front, the river stretches away to its mouth. In the distance the Punta Carretas lighthouse can be distinguished, and a streak of smoke, like a line of dust upon the water, indicates the gradual approach of the transatlantic steamer.

The eastern side, over Calle Patagones, has a glorious view of land and houses in front backed by country in the distance and lined on either side with stretches of water. Seated in a drawing-room or bed-room here, we can look out upon the Cerrito, the Paso del Molino, Bella Vista, the Union and Maroñas. Water to right of us, water to left of us. On the right, the river rolling to its mouth, with Punta Carretas lighthouse in the distance; on the left, the harbor, the playa with the Central Railway station and the train puffing along round the back of the bay; close at hand, the Custom House mole; near enough for us to be able to recognise our friends as they land or embark.

Three large river steamers appear to be close in shore; we watch the crowded boats as they carry the passengers for Buenos Aires and the neighboring ports on board.

Below us, as we stand upon the balcony, we see the widest part of Calle Cerrito, like a plaza beneath us, and mites of people walking about, no doubt complaining of the heat of the warm summer's day, while we, from our lofty "coin d'avantage," drink in the fresh air and bask in pleasant sunshine with unmixed delight.

Next to the glorious views, the fresh air, the lofty rooms and splendid ventilation, we think the very liberal supply of sanitary conveniences is most noteworthy. Every section, and each wing of each story is divided into several sections, —contains a most well arranged double w.c. perfectly fitted with lavatory on the most modern system. Every wing and section is separated or semi-detached by corridors, and each section is supplied with its water pipes and with double opening for the prompt service of water in case of fire. Large tanks of water are constructed at the top of the building, which would produce a tremendous force of water.

The National Hotel will be the first in Montevideo, if not in South America, to make use of that capital invention for sick or lazy people—the elevator. A very large one is fixed on the east or Patagones side, which will accommodate twelve persons at a time. By this means those who do not care to walk up the easy stair-case may reach their landing with all their luggage, and accompanied by their family and servants, in the twinkling of an eye and with the least exertion of their own. In the same way the west side is supplied with small elevators for sending up food direct from the kitchen to those who care either to dine in the large dining hall nor at the table d'hote, but in their own sitting rooms. The suites of rooms on each corner of the building are furnished with specially large and handsome drawing rooms with 5 windows to the street. Here a family party can well entertain their friends to a private dinner, and even banquets with 30 covers or more could be held.

The open terrace we have already referred to in the centre of the building and level with these suites of rooms, is approached by magnificent marble staircases east and west, with balustrades elegantly sculptured. It is lighted with two powerful electric lights, and will be a most pleasant evening resort for all the "high life" who inhabit the commodious apartments of this splendid hotel. Here they will meet "sans façon et sans cerémonie", as on the deck or in the first class saloon of a river steamer. The want of such apartments as this has long been acknowledged even in the best hotels in the Plate.

On the ground floor, the saloons are most magnificent. On either side of the norther entrance are the two billiard rooms, each holding several tables.

ARGENTINE RAILWAY COMPANIES AND THE GOLD PREMIUM.

Rather more than six months ago we directed attention to the effect that the rise in the premium on gold at Buenos Ayres might have upon the revenue of the Argentine railways and the return upon their securities. At that time we pointedly invited the Boards of the various companies to throw some light on a subject of so much practical interest to their shareholders. Our remarks drew from the chairman of the Buenos Ayres and Ensenada Port Company an explanation to the effect that a recently reported week's traffic on that line of £6,642, with gold at 75 per cent premium, equalled £3,800 sterling, and that, consequently, as compared with a traffic of £3,769 a year previously, the equivalent of which, with the premium at 54 per cent, was £2,450 sterling, the increase sterling was £1,350, and not the £2,870 which had been published as the actual increase. Although Mr. Batten further stated that he and his co-directors saw at that time no reason for altering their plan of keeping accounts, a change has since been made in the method of making up the traffic returns, the amounts of which for each week and for the corresponding week of the previous year are, we believe, now reduced to gold at the respective gold rates. In referring also to the accounts of the Central Argentine Company, we pointed out as a peculiar circumstance that the revenue account was made to show an apparent profit on exchange (in contrast with a heavy loss written off by the Ensenada Company), whilst, strangely enough, neither profit nor loss appeared in the capital expenditure account. In view of these discrepancies, with their attendant difficulties, it seemed to be a matter for consideration whether, in the accounts of these and other similar companies, the foreign income and expenditure should not be stated in the currency of the country where they carried on operations, rather than in sterling, so as to avoid the necessity of entering in the accounts a so-called gain or loss for the mere purpose of adjusting amounts previously entered at other than their true equivalents.

It is necessary at the present time to revert to this subject, and to recapitulate our former remarks, because of what passed at the extraordinary general meeting of the Central Argentine Company, held this week. Mr. Walter Morrison, the chairman, then said that the directors first heard of the enormous loss by the premium on gold in a letter they received on December 5, and the news "was like a shell bursting in the board-room," for they had assumed that the traffic receipts absolutely represented the value of their takings reduced to English gold. The amount of this loss is no less than £130,000, and it appears that it went on accumulating week by week without Mr. Morrison or any of his colleagues taking the trouble to satisfy themselves as to the accuracy of the figures they were placing before their shareholders, who have consequently been living for months past in a fool's paradise. It is, moreover, remarkable that it was not till two months after receipt of the letter by which the directors "first heard of this enormous loss," and when the shareholders had been convened for a special purpose—the raising of new capital—that the latter were informed of what had occurred, and were told that arrangements had "now" been made for the telegraphed traffic returns to be "reduced to the gold premium of the "day." In view of these facts, it is clear that the management of the company needs a thorough overhauling. The long spell of large profits which the company has enjoyed appears, indeed, to have exercised a somniferous effect upon both the directors here and the officials in Buenos Ayres. But, in the present critical condition of affairs in the Argentine Republic, a lack of energy and promptitude may easily lead to complete disaster; and it is to be hoped, therefore, that the shareholders will, in their own interests, bestir themselves without delay.—Financial News.

LATEST FROM PAYSANDU.

A Montevidean contemporary publishes the following interesting correspondence from Paysandu:—

The great news of the day is the sale of Santa Kilda camp to a powerful Oriental syndicate for the formation of colonies. We hear that some of the most prominent members of the Government are among the buyers. This camp is situated near the Midland Railway on the Salto line. The soil is of a sandy nature and is well adapted for agriculture. The Railway station here is almost finished, the workshops have all their machinery set up, and the last lot of carriages are shortly expected from England. No one, but those who have had to travel long distances on horseback or diligence, can appreciate the great boon conferred on the public by a line of rails.

The small colony started by M. Cabost has begun work and it is hoped that the ground will be sufficiently prepared for the reception of vines next year. The Guaviyu colonies are rapidly advancing, but we hear that the colonists are not supplied with a sufficient number of bullocks for ploughing purposes.

Mr. Donald Campbell has again purchased some building lots near the port, and we hear that an offer has been made to purchase all the eight squares on the South side of the town that will shortly be put on the market by the Argentines.

We have noticed that some of our Estancieros have put large quantities of ensilage this year. The Cabaña Loraine has now in the silo some 80 tons of maize There is no doubt that the more valuable our animals become the more care they will require, and some provision will be required to be made for winter feeding. This problem deserves the careful attention of the Estanciero; doubtless the silo will play an important "role" in the solution of the question. We are told that last year many valuable cows were saved during the winter by the aid of a little ensilage.

Things in the camp look well. Cattle are fattening and sheep are in good condition. The great mortality in sheep during the last season is well worth the careful study of the Estanciero, and we should be glad of some light thrown on the subject for the benefit of the public in the press. One thing we are sure of, that our flocks are not sufficiently culled; the desire to have number instead of quality largely prevails; if we ourselves do not cull, nature will do it for us and in the process leave us but the hide.

The concession for the electric light has been signed and the buildings will be begun within two months. The works will be placed some few squares from the Port and a tramway made to convey material to the works from the Port.

Railway Items.

The Reforma of Serena contains a long article on the Tinogasta and Caldera Railway, Messrs. A. Carranza and Co.'s concession. It will be remembered that this concession was recently negotiated in Europe and a company formed with a capital of 4 millions sterling to carry it out. Our serene contemporary qualifies the project as the most important of any yet sanctioned by the Argentine Congress, since the proposed line will open up a large extent of thriving country. The Province of Coquimbo also will be considerably benefited. But there is a hitch in the business on the Chilian side. It appears the Chilian Chambers are putting every manner of obstacle to the project, unlike their colleagues on this side of the Andes, who have always been impressed with the great importance of the Wheelwright idea, as this Carranza concession is called. The opposition of the Chilian Chambers is incomprehensible, since to keep back the project is to injure the interests of a rich portion of Chilian territory. A petition is being signed by the people of Atacama requesting the honourable representatives to immediately sanction the project.

According to the official monthly report on the Cañada de Gomez and Las Yerbas Railway the third section (Trebal kil. 149 to Sastre, kil. 201) has been well built. The Board of Public Works advise the Government to authorize the Company to open this section to traffic.

The Board of Public Works have sent a note to the Manager of the Pacific Railway informing him that according to the Inspector's report, there are many wagons in bad condition on the line. The Board appear to be quite angry with the traffic manager, it having come to their knowledge that wagons withdrawn owing to bad condition had been laden and run on the line.

The Inspector-General advises the Government to approve the plans of the crossings proposed by the Buenos Ayres and Rosario Railway on the Morteros Branch and near Rafaela [Cordoba and Rosario Railway.]

The petition recently sent to Government by the inhabitants of Campo Santo (Salta) for the opening of a station there has been received favorably.

The 8th section of the Dean Funes and Chilecito Railway was begun a few days ago. Engineer D. Rosa is, we learn, to be named inspector of this section

A voluminous correspondence and a telegram were received yesterday by Dr. Araoz from Mr. Gordillo, his inspector in Villa Mercedes, San Luis. It appears that the inspector called the attention of the police to a robbery (350 dollars) perpetrated by a guard in the sleeping saloon "Rosario." The police arrested the guard. At the same time, an order was received from the Federal Judge for the arrest of another person employed on the railway, on what grounds it is not known.

The inspector has also taken up the question of "no berths" in the sleeping saloons and written a vigorous note to the manager of the Pacific Railway on the subject.

Diogenes in the S. A. Journal says:—"If my readers ask me as to what Argentine stocks they should invest in at present, they need no go far afield. Amongst mortgage bonds, which are likely to experience a considerable rise, they might select Cordoba Central 5 per Cent. Debentures (Central Northern Section) now quoted 97—100; Argentine Northern Central Railway Extensions 5 per Cent. Government Mortgage Bonds at 86—91; Entre Rios Central 6 per Cent. Extensions at 95. The non-guaranteed railways also present an excellent opportunity for investment at present. Thus the Buenos Ayres Great Southern ordinary stock at 184 is a good purchase, and so are the new extension shares of that company (£3 paid) at 7¼, or 4¼ premium, which are convertible in 1894 into ordinary stock, receiving in the meanwhile 5 per cent. preference interest. Buenos Aires and Rosario Ordinary at 163¾ x new; Sunchales Extension shares of the same company at 162¼ x new; the Tucuman Extension shares of the same at 144 x new, and Central Argentine Ordinary at 182 also deserve the attention of investors."

A Montevidean exchange announces the following appointment:—Though we are sorry to hear Mr. Edward Hicks is leaving Montevideo, we are glad to hear he has been appointed to an important position in the offices of the well known railway contractors in Buenos Ayres, Messrs Lucas Gonzalez and Company. Mr Hicks has for some years acted most efficiently and untiringly as Hon. Secretary of the Montevideo Rowing Club, by which he will be long missed both by the Committee and the champion barman of the Club, whose crews he has so often coxed to victory. Mr Hicks was also Hon. Secretary of the M. V. Athletic Association, which, owing in a great measure to his energy, chronicled such a successful gathering last year. We heartily wish Mr. Hicks a pleasant time on the other side of the River Plate.

The ironclad Admiral Brown is expected out next month from England.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The "wild freshness of morning" yesterday was as damp as the spirits of National Bank Shareholders; but "evening's best light" was somewhat drier. The rain of Thursday night was the heaviest of the season, and if the Salubrity Works men could have laid hands on the Clerk of the Weather, they would have smashed him, as the "agua" did not serve all the drain-connecting work going on.

We have received a most effusive letter from a conspicuous influenza patient blessing us for ever and a day for our champagne prescription against the malignant epidemic. The dry champagne has kindled the poetic spark in our grateful subscriber, but we believe the verses, which we append as an illustration of the effects of extra dry, are from the genial pen of Edmund Yates:—

Dry as Compton's fun;
Dry as author's pocket;
Bright as that loved one,
Whose face lives in my locket:
At the beaker's brim,
Beading brittle bubbles;
Sea wherein to swim,
Forgetting all our troubles;
Sea where rancour sinks
No'er to rise again. O!
Blessedest of drinks,
Welcome, Pommery Greno!

The lines are as inspiriting as the extra dry, and both mixed ought to cure the very worst influenza case.

The news from Montevideo yesterday smacked of the hygienical altar. President Herrera is going to imitate President Cleveland and get married. This is the proper thing to do. An unmarried President is an anomaly. We have not heard the name of the future Presidentess; but it is of no consequence, as she is so soon to change it.

The Board of Public Works have their eagle-eye on the City Improvement Works; and the latest idea emanating from the inner consciousness of that august body is to start a committee of inspection, to see that the lessees do their duty.

Fashionable letters from London refer to the private theatricals given by Señor Villegas de Martinez as one of the nicest entertainments seen in high life there for some time.

The death of Don Enrique Sundblad, Chief of the Immigration Bureau, took the city by sad surprise yesterday and caused widespread regret. On returning home on Thursday evening he had an attack of "angina pectoris" which carried him off in a few hours. He was only 50 years of age The funeral takes place to-day.

We note £3554 sterling paid by the National Government for the latest consignment of shinplasters from Bradbury and Company. It is an unpleasant paradox that while these plasters for our bruised shins are gradually becoming worth nothing to this country, they are literally worth more than their weight in gold to the London firm that engraves them. So much for State-banking and its consequences.

The programme for the ceremony in honor of the late Duke of Aosta to-morrow at the Operal Italiani saloons includes half a dozen orations and some very select music. The Diplomatic Corps, officers of the Italian naval station and all the Italian Societies in town will be present.

Dignity is a good thing; but if you are in the rear of a big crowd and wish to see the procession, do not stand on it. Get on a barrel.

In making final proof before the United States Land Office, Judge Gulchard, of Walla Walla, usually asks, "Have you any family?" Most of them answer in the affirmative, but the other day he got hold of a man who had the biggest family on record. "Have you a family?" said the Judge, as he pulled down his vest. "Yes, sir," said the man, somewhat confused. "What does it consist of?" continued Mr. Gulchard. "Well," said the man, looking up to the ceiling so as to refresh his mind and give a true account, "a wife and twelve children, two married, a hired man, a gang plow, a seeder, a Bain wagon, and a span o' mules." "That's enough," said the Judge, with a smile, and the settler got his final papers without any further trouble.

An "altos" house in Calle Buen Orden (Cambaceres) came down on Thursday evening during the rain storm, and fell all of a heap on the kitchen of a restaurant below, burying two cooks, roast beef, mutton chops, tagliarini and all kinds of good things. The Knights of the White Paper Cap were pulled out more fr

As a result of the deliberation of Ministers, the Argentine Minister in Rome has been authorised to spend 248,000 lires in repairs on the Palacio Pandolfi, the property of the Nation, in which Palace the Argentine Legation will shortly be installed.

To-day, the deliberation on the question of the economies which the Government has resolved to make in the National Budget was adjourned.

To-morrow, the "bono" of the loan arranged in Europe by Dr. Pellegrini and intended for the prolongation of the Central Northern Railway will be signed, the contractors being Messrs. Lucas Gonzalez and Co. As is known, an advance on this loan of a million and a half pounds sterling has already been made by the National Bank.

The Bolsa tables are covered with beautifully printed notices of land auctions, the newspapers are filled with auction notices, and the amount of property offering for sale at the moment, without the slightest chance of sale is simply enormous. It is really astonishing that people knowing the present state of the money market force their properties on the market, as there is not the slightest chance of 1-tenth being sold. Even stock on first class estancias and of good breed are difficult of sale; good fat capones is selling at 5 nats, and in the far south at 4.50, whilst cattle 'al corte' are offering at even lower rates. Spite, however, of the great tightness in the money market and depression in stocks, we learn on good authority that camp affairs are looking much better, good sheep and cattle lands are in demand, and in several districts outside there are numerous new settlers.

The Rosario port movement on the 5th was as follows:—

Arrivals—Teviotdale in ballast and Hawkhurst with general cargo.

Cleared—Para for San Vicente with flax and Danish bq. Henny for Falmouth with cargo of wheat.

The Hesperides, Thessaly, Schelde, Adirondak and Diolibah are discharging at the Gas Mole. In coasting craft the movement is important.

An evening colleague announces the rate of exchange in Rio down to 23½d. and weak. This reflects a tremendous fall, considering that the par rate is over 27d., and shows that matters in Rio are not all "couleur de rose."

The Concordia saladero has sold 4,500 quintals jerked-beef, bonita and habanera quality, to load in the Spanish barque Antonita for Cuba at 30 rls. put aboard. Mr. Pineyrua has also disposed of 600 quintals in bales for Cuba via England at 33 rls. gold.

It was said to-day that an important English firm in Rosario has been caught in by the failure of Llovet and Co. of Corpoba, the great hard-ware firm. The matter will soon be arranged, as the Judge has already taken the matter in hand and a meeting of creditors has been called.

Telegrams are reported pouring in all our leading export houses, inquiring the state of the situation and prospects. There is evidently much alarm in Europe over the epileptic fit that has seized the gold premium.

The following is the movement of the Lamport and Holt fleet:—

The s|s Santa Fé arrived in San Nicolas yesterday and began loading at the Wiengreen wharf 2500 bags of maize in grain.

The Swedish barque Annie has cleared from same port for Falmouth with 6602 bags maise.

The s|s Schiedam has been chartered by Dreyfus and Company to load 8487 bags of yellow maize and 5144 bags white maize for Boulogne and Rotterdam.

We take the following items from our Montevidean exchanges:—

"The circulars of the new mining company 'La Presidencia' have been distributed.

"On Sunday next the shareholders of the Sociedad Viticola Uruguaya will go by invitation to inspect the vine plantations of the company at La Cruz, Florida, a special train being put at their service.

"The creditors of the ill-fated Banco Popular de Uruguay are cited to a meeting on the 14th inst., at 10 a.m., in the Judges' Saloon, Rincon 200.

"The merchant and broker Francisco Siri lo has been declared bankrupt.

"The Venus brought from Buenos Aires yesterday 2000 dols. for B. Tejeda.

"Sr. F. Citils has sold from his Cerro Saladero 300 pipes of ox tallow at 11½ dls. on board. Also all the ashes and bones of the season at 15 dols. per ton.

"The Concordia Saladero has sold 4000 to 4500 quintals jerked beef, 'bonito y habanero,' for the Spanish bq. Antonita, for Cuba, at 3 dols. the quintal on board. Sr. Pineyrua has sold 600 q.q. do. for Cuba, via England, at 3.30.

"We hear of a private sale of 11 Banco Comercial shares at 60 o|o premium.

"Wheat sales are in suspense in expectation of a fresh rise; 400 fanegas from Colonia, superior, were sold yesterday in F.C.O.U. Station at 4.80 the 110 kilos. Also 500 fanegas secondary from San Jose and Canelones at 4.40 to 4.60.

"The Apolo took on Tuesday 18,000 dols. to Salto for Orcasitos & Lozabas, and 24 09 dols. to S. Garcia. The Rivadavia took yesterday to Paysandu 26,960 dols. from the English Bank of the River Plate to the same."
